We read SSG because ...

Ulf G. Ryder,
President, Stena Bulk:

– Reading trade-publications is normally as exciting as watching paint dry. Despite this I look forward to receiving the monthly Gazette covering various aspects of shipping more in-depth.

Furthermore, SSG has today probably the best sum-up weekly newsletter covering the main topics in shipping.

Svend Flyvbjerg, Nørresundby,
Shipowner, Captain and Chairman of the Board of Rederiforeningen for Mindre Skibe:

– SSG gives me an interesting input on the area that covers our core-market, all in one and the same magazine instead of reading several others. That is nice. And also an easy way for a small company to cover a big area.

Christian Ramberg, Managing Director, Port of Turku:

– I read SSG because it is a strong representative for Shipping in Scandinavia and Finland. In addition the coverage of the Baltic region is very useful in my work.

Helge Otto Mathisen,
Information Director, Color Line:

– I read the SSG Newsletter because it gives me quick, clear and comprehensive coverage of the whole shipping industry.

Øvind Gjerde, Managing Director, Wilson EuroCarriers:

– In Wilson's world – the shortsea market – the Scandinavian Shipping Gazette brings out factual and original information of relevance to our operation.

Lennart Simonsson, Managing Director, Broström AB:

– The Scandinavian Shipping Gazette reflects current events in shipping in an objective and accurate way.

With 7,100 subscriptions and distribution on all major shipping events in Europe, The Scandinavian Shipping Gazette reaches more than 30,000 shipping professionals every month.

We read SSG because ...

Mart Saarlo, Counsellor, Estonian ministry of foreign affairs:

– I read SSG because my line of work is shipping. The Gazette covers the Baltic area but also more distant regions, in the international world of shipping. This is very helpful for getting an overall view.

The news coverage in the newsletter is short, clear and to the point. I would like to emphasise that for Estonia, the in-depth coverage of the Baltic area it is very helpful, the countries surrounding the Baltic are closely connected and have great influence on each other. I hope SSG continues on the set course.

Dan Mikkola, Managing Director, Godby Shipping:

– Out of all the shipping publications we subscribe to, the Scandinavian Shipping Gazette is the most asked for, ashore and at sea.

Nils P. Dyvik, President & CEO, Wallenius Wilhelmsen:

– I appreciate getting fast and relevant information regarding shipping and maritime matters, as this is very important in my daily work. I enjoy the Scandinavian Shipping Gazette as it also gives more in-depth stories on different aspects and actual topics within the shipping industry.
